ABOUT LONDON'S MOST ICONIC FAIR

Over three weeks of free stunning performances and cultural events as London's historic Bartholomew Fair is reimagined. From 31 August to 16 September, the City of London will become the stage for over 250 free events, live performances, and unique spectacles. Bartholomew Fair, which dates back to the 12th century and was last held in 1855, began as a cloth fair and quickly became London's pre-eminent event, entertaining visitors for over 700 years. It drew acts and crowds from all over the country and further afield.

PLAN YOUR VISIT

The City has excellent train and tube connections from whichever direction you're coming from. It's accessible via seven London Underground tube lines, plus the Elizabeth Line, DLR, London Overground, and various National Rail services.

Stations within the City: Aldgate, Bank, Barbican, Blackfriars, Cannon Street, Chancery Lane, City Thameslink, Fenchurch Street, Liverpool Street, Mansion House, Monument, Moorgate, St Paul's, and Tower Gateway.

Stations on or near the edge of the City include: Aldgate East, Farringdon, Shoreditch High Street, Temple, Tower Hill.

Other options to get into the City of London include bus, riverboat services (Blackfriars Pier and Tower Pier), and dedicated cycle routes. You can also walk to the City from other parts of central London - and beyond.
